

It is almost impossible for nationalism to not fall into the trap of being idolatry (that is, valuing something, in this case, our nation, more than God). A few people manage to avoid it. Too many seem to fall into the trap but don't realise it, or deny it. For British nationals who recognise that they really struggle to avoid it, here is an alternative anthem that is more God-centred:

- 1 God be our gracious King/Queen
 Lord be our noble King/Queen
 Christ be our King
 Spirit be victorious
 Happy and glorious
 Long to reign over us
 God be our King/Queen.
- 2 Thy choicest gifts in store
 On all be pleased to pour
 Long may Thee reign.
 May we live by your laws
 And ever give all cause
 To sing with heart and voice
 God be our King/Queen.

It is almost impossible for nationalism to not fall into the trap of being idolatry (that is, valuing something, in this case, our nation, more than God). A few people manage to avoid it. Too many seem to fall into the trap but don't realise it, or deny it. For British nationals who recognise that they really struggle to avoid it, here is an alternative anthem that is more God-centred:

- 1 God be our gracious King/Queen
 Lord be our noble King/Queen
 Christ be our King
 Spirit be victorious
 Happy and glorious
 Long to reign over us
 God be our King/Queen.
- 2 Thy choicest gifts in store
 On all be pleased to pour
 Long may Thee reign.
 May we live by your laws
 And ever give all cause
 To sing with heart and voice
 God be our King/Queen.